

Glenn Simpson OAM - Senior Reviewer – Brisbane

Glenn is a solicitor with over 20 years Australian Public Service experience – specialising in administrative and employment law. Glenn spent 8 years as an Executive Lawyer (at the SES level) – including time at both the then Department of Industrial Relations and Public Service Board where he was deputy head of the Advocacy Branch – which represented the Commonwealth and statutory authorities in the then Australian Industrial Relations Commission and Defence Force Remuneration Tribunal. Glenn also worked as a lawyer in Treasury, Attorney-General's, ACCC, Business and Consumer Affairs and Capital Territory.

In addition, Glenn has over 25 years' experience in the not-for-profit sector with industry associations, his last position being as General Counsel and a non-Executive Director of the Housing Industry Association Limited.

He has extensive experience in policy formulation, employment and contract law, skills and training, Work Health and Safety, Human Resource Management and personnel management issues, as well as strong negotiation and advocacy skills.

He was a Director of the C+BUS Superannuation fund and also chaired the Construction and Property Services Industry Skills Council.

Glenn brings with him a blend of public and private sector skills and experience, including in litigation, investigation of workplace incidents, discrimination, bullying and harassment claims, workers compensation appeals and managing organisational change.

Glenn has an Arts degree from Queensland University and an Honours degree in Law from ANU. He is admitted as a solicitor in NSW, Qld and ACT. He also served for 9 years in the Army Reserve.
